LAGARTO - A 2-year old boy attacked by his family's Great Dane early Friday morning is still in the hospital. The attack happened in the small town of Lagarto near Lake Corpus Christi.

The boy was transported to Driscoll Children's Hospital via air ambulance. He's still being treated for non life-threatening injuries. The boy's parents told authorities when they woke up this morning they heard him talking and then they heard a commotion.

It's not known how many times the dog bit the toddler, but police said he had at least one bite to the head. The dog has been taken to a veterinary clinic in Beeville where it will be held for observation for the next ten days.
