(AGI) - Bergamo, Sept. 14 - The baby, 12 days old from Terno d'Isola who was bitten by her parents mastiff is still in serious conditions but she is not in the danger list anymore.

The child underwent surgery today in the paediatrics surgery ward of Bergamo united hospitals after being saved. Doctors feared that a bite that made a hole in her cranial fountain could cause permanent damages. But the operation has reduced damages. Doctors must find if the dog's bite has caused an infection. The dog, a female that weight 50 kilos, was taken by the veterinary service of the local Health Service Office (ASL). Experts say the dog, which is not aggressive, could be jealous of the newborn child.
