SAN ANTONIO -- Two people were injured in a dog attack that left one woman with multiple bite injuries, police said.

Witnesses said a woman was walking her dog on a sidewalk near the intersection of South Brazos Street and Goodwin Avenue when two dogs got loose from their yard and attacked the woman.

"She was very bad," neighbor Albert Reyes said. "They were biting her head, arms, legs, whatever they could clamp their jaws on."

Reyes said one dog turned on him and bit him in the ankle as he tried to help the woman.

Police responding to the scene shot and killed one of the dogs and captured the other in a back yard nearby.

Both victims were taken to area hospitals for treatment, police said. Reyes said his injury would likely require stitches. Witnesses said the woman was conscious following the attack, but there is no report on her condition.
