

Thank you for using our printer friendly story page.

Return to story

Dog bites woman in Verona

Wisconsin State Journal
December 30, 2008

A husky-like dog bit a woman Sunday at about 4 p.m. on Highway M in Verona in front of the high school, and authorities are looking for the dog.

It is white, medium size, with some black markings. It has one blue eye and one brown eye, and it was with another husky, walked by a couple.

The woman did not realize the bite had broken her skin until after dogs were gone.

Any information on the dog or the incident would be welcome by the Department of Public Health's animal services officer, who can be contacted at 608-255-2345.

Return to story

madison.com is operated by Capital Newspapers, publishers of the Wisconsin State Journal, The Capital Times, Agri-View and Apartment Showcase. All contents Copyright ©2008, Capital Newspapers. All rights reserved.