Baby Injured in Caddo Dog Attack

Updated: Jan 9, 2008 06:27 PM EST

A three month-old baby is recovering after being dragged down stairs by a dog.

It happened here in the 100 block of South Arkansas Street, near downtown Caddo, in north Bryan County.

The three month-old's uncle sat the boy down in his car seat at the top of his porch. When he went to shut the front door, he heard a loud thump.

Then he turned around and saw what was he described as a type of hound dog, dragging the baby down the stairs.

The baby was lucky to escape the incident with only scratches on his head.

By the time his uncle had the opportunity to react and grab the baby in his car seat, the car seat had turned over, and the dog had bit into the car seat.

Caddo police responded to the call.

The dog was still in the neighborhood when they arrived and has been quarantined.

The baby has been checked out and is doing okay.

KTEN's Jhen Kordela will have more on the story Wednesday night, on KTEN News at 10.
