Dog bite to child bringing animal supervision into question

08:29 PM EDT on Wednesday, May 7, 2008

(WHAS 11) - A severe dog bite to a young child in Louisville is bringing attention to supervision around the family pet. WHAS 11 was told that a three year old child was bit yesterday on the ear by the family pet, a blue tip hound mix.

Metro Animal Services say that in 2007, 971 dog bites were reported in Jefferson County. They say it's important to keep a close eye on your children with the family pet.

The dog has been placed on quarantine for the next 10 days. It's up to the owner whether the dog will be put down.

The condition of the child has not been released.
