CS Animal Control Search for Dog from Attack

College Station police received a call about an animal bite around 2:30 p.m. Friday. The incident happened at 300 Park Road. The identity of the victim has not been released by police. Police say the victim was bitten by a small male brown dog with floppy ears.

The dog is described as “Benji-like”, and possibly a Cairn Terrier or Jack Russell Terrier mix. The owner of the dog is described as a college-aged white female with brown hair.

College Station Animal Control is asking the public for help to locate the dog so that rabies exposure to the victim can be ruled out. When located, the dog will need to be observed for ten days from the time of the bite for signs of rabies infection. This will prevent the victim from possibly needing post-exposure rabies vaccinations. If you have any information regarding this case, please call 979-764-3600.
